The House met at 11 c'clock. The chair laid before the House a House bill, with Senate amendments, to regulate the pay of a general assigned to duty at the seat of Government, under the provisions of the act approved March 25, 1862.

The amendments were agreed to. The bill increasing the compensation of noncommissioned officers and privates of the army of the Confederate States, was so amended by the Senste as to strike out "permanently" and insert "for one year from the passage of this

13.h : At no time during the past year have the tebels who now swarm in Paris seemed to be in such good humor and so apparently confident of the near approach of the success of their trattorous scheme. They express great confi-dence, and in some cases have even offered bets and oven anticipate the capture of Washington by the pursuing hosts. This done, they assert recognize the Confederacy, and that before the year is closed they will have at least twenty con-clad vessels, now building in European corts, affect, and preying on our commerce. If e present campaign, however, does not terminate the war, they state boldly that it is the satention of the rebel Government to place arms in the hands of a quarter of a million of sme-

gross, who, they sesset, will be delighted to fight r the independence of the "Sunny South." The correspondence of the Moniter, which refesses to come from New York, but which is eally made up here in their foreign office, continually represents our foreign affairs in the very worst possible light. The latters published within the last few days make out a despurate ase against us, and it is evident that the Pronch lovernment, desirous as it is that we should fail, is rather strongly induced to believe also that we will. With the present prospects of peace in Europe, you may rest assured that if Napoleon can find any reasonable pretext for it, he will give his Southern friends at least the a nation. I begard the prediction that, should Grant he beaten, a month will not elapse before Mr. Slidell is received in his official capacity at the Tuileries.

Some people are given to imagine that the price of gold is a good evidence of the nature The question on the motion to refer was then day to day represented the bona fide value of the put and decided in the affirmative by the follow- article, it might be a safe index for this partienlar. But this is not so. Wall street is, in a measure, in the hands of rebel sympathisers rassed condition of affairs at the North, to dispirit our people and give comfort to the one

my and his agents.
There is nothing substantial in the way these gentry carry on their proceedings except the success which attends them. A rebel agent and this quotation is immediately biasoned abroad as the price of gold, whereas there is really no gold at all represented in the transac-

purchase it, as they would called or broadcloth, to meet their needs; but the speculators run the price up or down to suit their own nefarious ends. That these people are in the interest of which all the Southern papers give to the gold quotations in Wall street, which they sometimes rate. Thus the Charleston Mercury, of the 20th. quotes gold at 176, but adds that these figures robably mean 196, and further, that this is only the premium, thus making the actual price supon bonds, reported back the same with is the mode by which the gold market is reguamendments, which were agreed to, and the lated to further the ends of traitors North and
